WEEK OF NOVEMBER 15-21, 2020

word of the week

Cisgender privilege: people who are cisgender typically have rights, advantages, and access to resources and opportunities that aren't granted to people who are transgender.

For example, you are not questioned about what restroom you should be using, denied access to healthcare, misgendered when addressed or spoken about, asked what your "real" name is, or fearful of violence because of your gender presentation.
